IPROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT. MONONGAHELA CITY, May 19 .- William West, the colored man 25 years old, was this evening held for court by Justice John Holland on the charge of murdering John and Emily Crouch and their son Andrew on May 13. Little that has not already been published in THE DISPATCH was developed, but it was considered ample for the holding of the prisoner. District Attorney Parker conducted the hearing. The city was filled with country people all day, and there was much excitement.

The hearing was not held until this fused to allow the disinterment. The object | lorgeries. Hugh Ray testified that he met West on the Homer Harvey, of Brownsville, with whom Annie Brundage lived from 1881 until February 20, 1890, came here this morn-ing and tried to get the woman to give up woman refused to do so.

The inquest was begun at 1:30 P. M. in the City Hall. A great crowd collected outside, and there was a severe crush at the door. It was out of the question to admit all or even half of those who pushed and shouted to get in. Justice Holland conducted the hearing. West was brought up from his cell wearing a cutaway coat taken from his trunk. He was very nervous, rubbed his hands together and

Mayor Houston announced the change of jurisdiction, and Justice Holland read the complaint. During its reading West looked steadily at the Justice, and when the words regarding murder were read his lips and eyelids quivered. He breathed heavily. Ann Brundage watched her lover almost breathlessly. The examinations were conducted by District Attorney William S. Parker. The main points in the testimony Dr. E. E. French testified that the necks of

Dr. E. E. French lessing a last me needs of all three of the murder ed people were broken. "Squire David Mitchell told of the alarm given last Wednesday morning by young Craw-ford, and described his visit and entry into the house. As he spoke of the murdered people, and parched, and he swallowed frequently, When Squire Mitchell entered the house, at 9 a. M. Wednesday, the bodies were stiff. The bureau drawers in the bedroom downstairs were all drawn out some distance and the

HOW THE BODIES WERE POUND.

Alpheus Crawford told about the same story. He and Mitchell searched for tracks in the yard and the road, but found none. Crawford told of one harvesting time, when West and Andrew Crouch went to the house together and got money with which West paid the harvesters. On Wednesday morning the front door was locked and the kitchen door nnlocked. On Thesiay, Crawford said, rain fell-locked. On Thesiay, Crawford said, rain fell from 2 to 3 and from 4 to 4:45 o'clock. Harry Crawford, 12 years old, repeated his story of puding Crouch's dead body on the morning of May 14 about 8:45 or 9 o'cl. ck. When he went to the house the dog was in the yard, but did Mrs. Jemima Tinley, living three-quarters of

Mrs. Jemima Tinley, living three-quarters of a mile from the Crouch house and nearly due north, told of seeing a tall man hurrying across the fields at about 4:15 eleteck Wednesday aft-ernoon. She said a hard rain was falling, and the man was at least 200 yards distant. He wore a dark hat and a long black coat, and he had a cane in his right hand. He was a "dark cted" man, but she could not say if he The hat coat and cordured pants found in

The hat, coat and corduroy pants found in Beaver Falls were produced. District Attorney Parker asked that West put on the hat and coat. Attorney McIlvaine refused to agree to that. Detective Koraman, who is six feet tail, put on the hat and coat. Mrs. Tinley said: "That don't look like the coat the man had on that I saw. I think it was longer," West stood up. Mrs. Tinley said: "He looked to be about as tail as that man."

Miss Jane Jones said that when she was at an upstairs windew Tuesday afternoon, she saw the sheer running in the field. Looking out to Looking out to see why they were running, she saw a tall man see why they were running, she saw a tall man, with dark clothing, hurrying across the field in a northeastern direction. She watched him out of sight, a distance of about a quarter of a mile. She only saw West once, and said that she did not know him when she saw him. He went toward Saulters' woods, in the direction of the Creek road—rather toward Hetherington's. As the day was cloudy and the rain heavy, she could not tell the man's color. It was about $0 clock.

FIGTING THE SHORS IN THE TRACES, William Greenlee, a young man living two miles north of Bentleysville, told of the fitting of West's old shoes into tracks across his father's oat field, by Officers McCleary and Kornman. The tracks were large; some rain had man. The tracks were large; some rain had made them faint, but the shoes fit as closely as possible. He felt certain that shoes of the same size as those tried made the tracks examined. The big, leng, flat, mud-covered shoes were produced and identified. The tracks were first noticed by witness brother Joe, a few minutes after 5 o'clock on the evening of May 14. The field was soft and the tracks were deep, so that their outlines were plainly to be seen.

Captain Martin Coulson, the proprietor of Captain Martin Coulson, the proprietor of the Keystone Stock farm, described West's passing his pilace at 6:30 or 7 o'clock on the evening of May 14. He positively identified West as the mao. His story was given in The Disparci of to-day. West did not seem much fatigued and was walking fast. He carried a bundle. Captain Coulson was shown the coat found at Beaver Fails. He said he thought the coat West had on was longer.

James Kearney, living between Coulson's and this city, saw a colored man pass his house a short time before 7 o'clock. He could not recognize the man, but he was walking very rapidly.

recognize the man, but he was walking very rapidly.

Mrs. Harriet Gamble, keeping a boarding house on Hallrend street, told of West and the woman remaining over night at her house, from May 14 to 15. When West came, about 9 P. M., he wore a Derby bat, a long black coat and brown cordiney breeches. Next morning he changed ciothing, after a trunk was brought to the house. West wanted to go north on the 7 o'clock train in the morning, and Mrs. Gamble got an early breakfast. Then West said he would go after his trunk because his wife wanted to change her clothing. West said the lived at the far side of Washington county close to Greene sunnty. They left her house about 11 A. M., May 15. The witness said that West laid a satched with a paper parcel strapped to its size. During the night she heard West and his woman

TALKING NEARLY ALL NIGHT. The woman said: "We have been visiting five weeks and spent $150. Will drew some more out of the bank yesterday, and he has $1,400 worth of property." Attorney Mclivaine spent a long time cross-examining Mrs. Gamble as to the satchel. She maintained positively that there was a satchel, and that West carried it way with him, but she could not tell its color.

When West came to the house his coat was torn under the arm. Next day, a few minutes PARKER'S GINGER TONIC is your surest relief.

after West and the woman and boy started up the railroad track toward the depot, she saw West pass the house alone, walking down the tracks carrying the satchel.

Finney Bedsworth, of Bentleysville, said that he last saw John Crouch alive at about 1 o'clock on May 18. He was helping Andrew and his father to put a harrow together and afterward was harrowing. It was about 2 o'clock that he last saw Andrew alive.

George Wilson, baggage agent at the Monongahela City depot, said that West came to the depot to get his trank at about 7 P. M. May 18. The trunk arrived from Pittsburg on the 509 train, on May 12. West was at the depot that evening, pointed out the trunk and said he had lost the check. Wednesday morning Wilson did not see West, but the woman checked the trunk away.

did not see West, but the woman checked the trunk away.

Harry Mains said that when he put the horses in the barn, about 2:15 P. M., of May 18, and had unharnessed them, one of them ran out of the stable and when the other tried to follow it fell and got fast in a stall. After it was helped up, Andrew let both horses out into the pasture field. When Mains got home and asked his wite what time it was, she said it was about 3 o'clock.

Charles Hoover, of Allegheny, said that on May 12, at 3 P. M., West came to him in the Allegheny market and handed him a note signed by the name of Basil Barker, who, West said, was his incle. The note was an order on Hoover for $4.50, which Hoover paid to West. GOING AFTER HIS TRUNK.

The latter said that he wanted the money in order to go to Quaker Valley to get a trunk he had there, and was then going to work for his uncle, Barker, at the head of Butcher's Run. Next day Barker said the note was a forcery, and refused to pay the money back.

Hou. George V. Lawrence, of Monongahela

afternoon, owing to a question as to City, said that on Friday last West said in the jurisdiction. Before that time some jan that he never saw the Barker order before, jurisdiction. Before that time some new and nearly conclusive proof of the guilt of William West was developed by 'Squire McCormick and Burgess French, of Beutleysville. It was the story of Thomas Coyle, a farm hand for Mills, living north of the Crouch place. McCormick, French and Dr. A. N. Booth, under orders from District Attorney Parker, went to Beallsville yesterday to disinter the Crouches and examine their stomachs. The Burgess of Besllsville and the cemetery directors refused to allow the disinterment. The object was to ascertain whether the murder occurred before or after supper. McCormick and French came here this morning to confer with the District Attorney.

It being rumored that Attorney McIlvaine, for the prosecution, would contest Mayor Houston's jurisdiction, it was decided to avoid that possibility. After the arrival of the District Attorney and Detectives Glenn and Kornman it was decided to bring a new suit. Mayor Houston, at 10 o'clock, dismissed the case before him and a new information was made before Justice John Holland, the charge being the same as in the other case, murder. There could be no doubt of the territorial jurisdiction of the justice.

HELD WITHOUT BAIL.

This was considered sufficient evidence and Mr. Parker asked to have the prisoner held. Attorney Mclivaine said he thought ing and tried to get the woman to give up the testimony wholly insufficient, but he the boy, Lindley, who is 7 years old. The was willing for the case to go to court. Justice Holland then held the prisoner to court without bail. He was returned to his cell and will be taken to Washington to-morrow morning. Annie Brundage will be held as an accomplice and will also go to the county fail.

After the hearing was concluded the boy was taken from the woman and given to Homer Harvey, the father. Harvey took the child this evening to Brownsville, Coroner James F. Kennedy has decided to disinter the Crouch bodies to-morrow and make an examination of them.

A FEW COMPLAINTS.

District Attorney Parker expresses him-self as satisfied with the case, but further investigations will be made. He says he is and treasure. There is much complaint among the testimony of the Commonwealth was given be farmers and even city taxpavers in this Callaghan himself, and was a reiteration of the There is much complaint among the region because the County Commissioners have not offered a reward for the Crouch murderer's conviction. Some who think West guilty hold that there should be intheir positions and the bloody club, West bit their positions and the poned and closed them. NOTED ROBBERY CASE

A Story Full of Dramatic Features Being Rehearsed at Findlay.

CHARGES OF POISONING MADE

Master Workman Powderly Acquitted of the Charge of Conspiracy.

ALL THE NEWS FROM NEARBY TOWNS

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE. FINDLAY, May 19 .- The trial of Henry Kibler, Jerome Kibler, Charles Morgan, Levi Fox, Albert Decker, John Long, Tuck Hughes and Charles Bates, well-known residents of the county and city, under indictment for being the principals in the now famous Oman robbery, began in the Court of Common Pleas here this morning. This is the most sensational case in the criminal annals of Northwestern Ohio, and has attracted attention all over the country on account of the dramatic features it has furnished from time to time.

On the night of February 2,1889, while Wesley Oman and his family were sitting around the fire in their frame house, six miles south of this city, the door of the room was suddenly broken in and eight masked men rushed upon the family and bound and gagged them. They then demanded $2,000, which Oman had re-ceived a few days before from the sale of land, but which he had deposited in a Findlay bank. DID NOT BELIEVE HIM.

This he told the leader of the gang, but it was not believed, and a 4-year-old son was taken and held over the fire until his feet were blistered, the object being to induce the father to tered, the object being to induce the father to disclose the biding place of the money and save his child from further suffering. This failing, they took $180 belonging to Oman's father, and rode away, leaving the family bound and gagged until morning. Oman suspected some of his neighbors of the crime, and employed Detective Lowe, of Toledo, to work up the evidence.

The detective had collected testimony sufficient to secure an indictment when he was The detective had collected testimony sufficient to secure an indictment when he was suddenly taken ill and died shortly afterward in great agony at the Humphrey House in this city. A local detective, Henry Strickler, was then employed, who procured the indictment of the men whose trial began to-day, but two weeks ago he became suddenly ill with symptoms similar to those which carried Lowe to his death and in a short time, he, too, followed his predecessor to the grave, thus putting out of the way two of the hiate's most important witnesses.

SUPPOSED TO HAVE BEEN POISONED It is charged that Lowe and Strickler were both poisoned, but as no analysis of their re-mains was made this will probably never be

The defense will attempt to prove an alibi, but it is hinted that one of the accused will turn State's evidence and disclose the whole conspiracy to rob Oman, and the details of the subsequent efforts to get rid of the two detectives.
